Why teach puppetry?

“The art of Puppetry is movement!
Making something
come alive
with your hands”

Puppetry Encourages

Creativity

Making puppets from the many different media available. Imaginative play, from a simple sock, spoons, string, and other materials.

Art of story writing

Working together to present a play in-front of an audience.

Developing a character

It's name, where it lives, what it does, how it moves, what it likes etc...

Confidence

Using their voice to express their puppet character.

Social and Communication Skills

Enriched with the aid of puppetry to learn to express their thoughts and words in a way that is easy and comfortable.

Puppets are a great media to use with children at any stage of development.

Review

(Rangitoto College, Performing Arts Class, year 10 enjoyed a 30 min show and an hour workshop)

“The puppet show and workshop was a valuable tool for the students to grasp what a show looks like and what kind of puppets you can create.

They enjoyed being able to touch and feel all the different puppets and were inspired to get started creating their own.

Thank you to Christine for being highly energetic and giving her time to all three classes.
We loved it!”
